This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

owners has ceased. (Salary, $3,200)—162 Daly Street, Ottawa; Western Departmental Building.

Inspector of Penitentiaries.—JAMES GEORGE MOYLAN. B. near Maynooth, Co. Kildare, 1826. On the paternal side of Milesian descent. Several prelates bearing the name, between the seventh and fourteenth centuries, are mentioned in the Annals of the Four Masters. S. of the late Michael Moylan, by Mary, third daughter of George Thomas Bird, Esq., of Little Haywood, Staffordshire. Commenced his preparatory studies in 1837, at St. Jarlath's College, Tuam, presided over by the late illustrious Archbishop McHale, where he remained till 1841, when he passed the prescribed examination for humanities in the Royal College of Maynooth. Here he passed through the extensive curriculum for which this seat of learning is renowned during 6 years. Not having a call for the ecclesiastical state he left the college in 1847. On the death of his father in 1851, accompanied by a brother and several sisters, he emigrated to Philadelphia, where, immediately after arriving, he proceeded to Washington, and became attached to the Chilian Legation under Count de Carvallo, then Minister Plenipotentiary. Upon the recall of the Envoy, in 1852, he (Mr. M.) formed his first connection with the press by becoming associated with the widely known Mr. J. W. Simonton as correspondent of the N. Y. Times, and several other leading journals in the Northern and Southern States. The founder and chief editor of the Times, the late Hon. Henry J. Raymond, in 1853, offered Mr. Moylan a position upon the staff of that paper, which he accepted and held until 1856, when he came to Canada, at the earnest solicitation of the Superior of the Jesuit Mission at Guelph, as professor of Classics and English Literature in the ollege just then completed. Owing to the financial depression then prevailing the enterprise was abandoned, and he became Principal of what may be regarded as the first R. C. High School of Upper Canada. Urged by the late Hon. T. D'Arcy McGee and a large number of prominent Roman Catholics, he consented to resume his connection with the press, and established, at Toronto, in 1858, the Canadian Freeman, which he continued to edit and publish until 1873. Meanwhile, the Premier of the day—Sir John Macdonald—and Hon. J. C. Chapais, deeming it advisable that some effort should be made to encourage and direct emigration from Ireland to Canada, induced Mr. Moylan to accept, for one year, the post of Commissioner, at Dublin, for the Dominion, in order to promote the policy of the Government in this respect. Instead of the 12 months stipulated for, he remained from the Sept. of 1869 till March 1872, in Ireland, in opposition to his wishes and interest, in order to meet the views of the Administration. He declined the offer of a permanent appointment in Ireland, upon very favourable terms, made to him by Sir John Macdonald. Soon after his return to Canada a vacancy occurred on the Board of Penitentiary Directors, to which he was appointed. In 1875, when the Board was abolished, pursuant to the Penitentiary Act of that year, he was retained as Acting Inspector, and some months afterward he was nominated Inspector. He has had occasion to visit all the Provinces of the Dominion in his official capacity. In 1878, he opened the penitentiary at New Westminster, B.C., and in 1880 that at Dorchester, for the Maritime Provinces. M. Bessie, fifth dau. of the late Daniel Markham, Esq., Co. Clare, and niece of "The O'Gorman," of the Causeway Ennis, who was also uncle of Colonel The O'Gorman Mahon, M.P., senior member of the English House of Commons, and of Major O'Gorman, ex-M.P. for Waterford. (Salary, $2,750.)—154 Daly Street, Ottawa; Eastern Departmental Building.

Chief Clerk, Governor General's Office.— JOHN KIDD. Was Private Secretary to the late Lord Dudley Coutts Stuart, M.P. for Marylebone, 1847 to 1854. Assistant Military Secretary on the Staff of General Count L. Zamoyzski in the Imperial service in Turkey, 1855-56. Private Secretary to the Earl of Carnarvon, 1857. Entered the service of the Canadian Government, January 1858. Apptd. to a first class clerkship, July 1858; and to a chief clerkship, January 1875. (Salary, $2,300.)—127 Metcalfe Street, Ottawa; Eastern Departmental Building.

No one can be admitted to hear the debates without an order from the Sergeant at Arms, which is generally obtained through a member. Twenty members, including the Speaker, constitute a quorum.

3. SPEAKER.—He is the presiding officer of the body. He reads all communications which come from the Queen's Representative to the Commons; he has to present and read such addresses and petitions as are carried up to the Governor General by the Whole House, and to deliver the usual speeches, on the part of the Commons, when presenting the Supply Bill, and other Bills calling for peculiar note and remark. Through him all witnesses and prisoners at the Bar of the House are examined, and he directs all arrangements when the House is to be addressed by counsel. It is his duty to deliver the reprimand of the House to any one who has incurred the penalty of receiving it; it is also his duty to issue warrants of committal or release for breach of privilege; to communicate with any parties, when so instructed by the House. It is his duty to closely examine the provisions of Private Bills so as to protect the public against any surprise, or undue enroachment or injury. He controls and regulates the conduct of subordinate officers of the House, and enforces the Rules of the House; he cannot join in any debate unless in Committee of the Whole House. As the presiding officer of the House, he has all the duties attached to such an office. The Speaker is chosen by the members of Parliament, and holds his office until the Parliament in which he is elected is dissolved. Should a member persevere in disobeying the order of the Speaker, and of the House, the Speaker may "name him," a course uniformly followed, as the term implies, by the censure of the House. In extreme cases the Speaker may order members or others into custody until the pleasure of the House be signified. On divisions, when the numbers happen to be equal, he gives the casting vote, but he never otherwise votes. Some questions as to the prerogatives and duties of the Speaker will be found among Speakers' Decisions.

4. MEMBERS, INTRODUCTION OF.—Members elected during the existence of Parliament will, after taking the oath of allegiance and subscribing the roll, appear at the Bar of the House and claim their seats, the custom being an introduction by other members, who announce that these requirements have been fulfilled. A member who has been unseated and re-elected must again sign the roll and take the oath; should he take his seat and vote without doing so, he incurs the penalty of £500 sterling for every day he so sits and votes. Though his fresh introduction at the Bar is unnecessary, such is the practice, to save any re-elected member from unwittingly incurring the penalty. (During the recess of 1877, Mr. Speaker ANGLIN resigned his seat in the House and was re-elected. At the opening of the session of 1878, upon the Governor General directing the re-assembled House to elect a Speaker, Mr. ANGLIN and other re-elected members forthwith took their seats and voted on the question.) When a member is unseated by a tribunal which at the same time declares another person duly elected to the seat, the new member may (after taking the oath) without any introduction, take his seat and vote, as if he had occupied it from the first.

5. CLERK OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.—"The Clerk of the Commons House of Parliament" holds an office of great trust and importance. He, with one assistant, sits at the upper end of the table. The Crown appoints him by commission under the great seal. It is his duty to make minutes, not of the arguments used in the House, but the decisions at which it arrives—in other words, to make a true and faithful record of all the proceedings in which it may be engaged; to see that they are correctly printed and distributed to the members; to read aloud all such documents as the House may order to be read; to perform the duty (without taking the chair), of president or moderator during the choice of a Speaker, putting a question and directing a division in the same manner that a Speaker would do.

6. SERGEANT AT ARMS.—This officer, although in attendance on the House of Commons, is appointed by the Crown. It is his duty to obey the commands of the House, to apprehend and take into custody all those who are committed for any offence by the House. All the messengers and servants of the House, except the Clerks, are under his orders. He has a seat within the Bar, and directs all arrangements for the maintenance of order in the approaches thereto, and in the galleries. He is, of course, in immediate attendance upon the Speaker, from whom he takes all orders in connection with his duties. He is assisted by a Deputy.

7. ORDER.—By this word is meant obedience to certain rules and regulations intended to facilitate the despatch of business, and preserve that decorum necessary in all deliberative assemblies. The rules by which the business of Parliament is conducted are of two kinds; one kind the House possesses in common with all deliberative assemblies—another is peculiar to its own existence and powers. For the proper application of all these rules, the Speaker or Chairman's decision is had, and to this decision due deference is at all times paid. The Speaker, while in the Chair, takes no part in the debate, it being his duty to regulate the manner in which business shall be transacted; to confine those members who address the House to the subject under consideration; to give his opinion in all things which relate to order; to put the matter in dispute into the form of a question, upon which the votes of members are taken, and to declare the majority as soon as it is communicated to him by the Clerk. It is also his duty to state when the business of the House is closed, and to see that its transactions are correctly and properly recorded. After routine he calls upon the member whose motion stands first on the paper of notices, or who is otherwise entitled to precedence. A motion must be seconded, or it falls to the ground; being seconded, the motion is handed in writing to the Speaker, who has to read it before debate can be had upon it; having been read, objections may be urged. There are several ways by which a motion may be opposed; it may be met by a direct negative, or by an amendment, or by a motion to postpone, or by proceeding to the next order of the day, or by moving the previous question, or by the simple motion of adjournment. A motion once read cannot be withdrawn without the permission of the House. Unless a speech is made objecting to a motion neither mover nor seconder can speak a second time except in explanation. If, however, a debate does arise, in which opposition is offered to the mover of a motion, he has the right to reply; but this privilege does not belong to the mover of an amendment. All are permitted to explain. The debate being ended, the Speaker or Chairman puts the question, and calls upon those in favour to say "Yea," and those of a contrary disposition to say "Nay." He then declares that in his opinion the "Yeas" or the "Nays" (as the case may be) have it. If his decision is questioned, the House divides, the "Yeas" rising, and their names being taken down, the "Nays" following, the numbers are counted from the record and declared. Should a member, when the voice of the House is called for, say "Aye," and should he afterwards, on division, vote "Nay," and attention be called to the fact, his vote will be recorded "Aye." The simply calling for a Division, when the Speaker has declared that "the Ayes have it," would not, however, require the record of his vote adversely as "Nay," the Canadian rule differing herein from the English. When an amendment has been moved, the vote is taken on the amendment, and then on the original question. Should the amendment be adopted, it then becomes the substantive motion, and may be amended in the same way that the original motion was amended. Thus a number of successive amendments to the original motion may be disposed of. Any member is at liberty to interrupt another by "rising to order," which means that he rises in his place and calls the attention of the Chair and the House to a breach of order then being committed. In debate it is contrary to order to mention any member by name; the same rule prevails in Committee of the Whole, except as regards the Chairman, who is sometimes called by his name, and not Mr. Chairman. For special questions of order that have arisen since Confederation see Speakers' Decisions.

STRANGERS.—If any member shall take notice that strangers are present, Mr. Speaker, or the Chairman (as the case may be), shall forthwith put the question that strangers be ordered to withdraw, without permitting any debate or amendment; provided that Mr. Speaker, or the Chairman, may, whenever he thinks proper, order the withdrawal of strangers.

8. COMMITTEES—Are, first, those of the Whole House, which may be to consider certain resolutions, as to the nature of which considerable latitude prevails; or the House itself resolves into such Committee to consider the details of a Bill, the principle of which may be discussed at any or all of its other stages; or there may be Committees for financial purposes, as those of "Supply," or "Ways and Means" (which see). Secondly, there are Select Committees, chosen by ballot or otherwise, for some specific purpose. The number composing such bodies seldom exceeds fifteen members, except by permission of the House. During the session of 1877, an important discussion took place, involving both the composition and powers of Select Committees.—(See Speakers' Decisions.) Thirdly, Committees on Private Bills (which see). When the whole House is in Committee, the Speaker vacates the chair, the Mace is placed under the table, and some member is called to preside, who sits in the seat of the Clerk of the House.

9. PETITIONS.—The following Rules respecting Petitions should be carefully observed, as deviation therefrom will involve rejection:

(1.) Petitions involving public expenditure, such as grants of money or lands, claims for arrears of pay or for remuneration for public service rendered, or other demands imposing a burthen upon the people, cannot be received by the House, which has not the power of initiating such imposition. A petition which only expressed a hope for a grant was excluded in session of 1878.—(See Speakers' Decisions.) In 1877, however, a petition for imposition of duty or for bounty on coal was received.—(See Speakers' Decisions.)

Petitions of this nature should be addressed to "His Excellency the Governor General in Council." The correct form is to forward them to the Secretary of State, who will then, "by command," refer them to the Ministers of the Crown to whose Departments their subjects respectively relate; and they will thereafter be dealt with Departmentally, in the same manner as any official letter or communication received direct from the parties interested. In point of fact, however, the forwarding of such petitions by Members of Parliament, with covering letter, direct to the Department concerned, at any time, and without waiting for the session, is practically the best course. In this way, petitions may be brought before the Executive in ample time for consideration before the meeting of Parliament, when the representative can, if desired, bring on a discussion upon the merits of the case.

Although such petitions may not be presented to the House, which has not the power of granting them, it is quite in order (after proceeding as above) to bring them under the cognizance of Parliament by moving an Address to His Excellency for them, and any other papers connected with them in the Departments, to be brought down; and the Government, upon its responsibility to Parliament, can then be brought to account for the exercise or non-exercise of the power vested in it of granting the pecuniary or other relief prayed for.

(2.) It has been decided that Aliens, non-residents of the Dominion of Canada, have not the right of petitioning this Parliament. An exception to this rule was made during session of 1878.

(3.) Petitions may be either written or printed; provided always that the signatures of at least three Petitioners are subscribed on the sheet containing the prayer of the Petition.

(4.) Signatures to Petitions must be original; no agent should sign a Petition to Parliament for any purpose. No chairman can sign for a public meeting, but the common seal of a corporation is received as the petition of the whole body.

(5.) All Petitions must be in respectful and temperate language, and must not contain any matter in breach of the Privileges of the House, such as animadversion upon the conduct of Parliament, or reference to any subject under debate, or to a motion in course of preparation.

(6.) Petitions to the House of Commons should be addressed: "To the Honourable the Commons of Canada, in Parliament assembled;" the statement of grievance or cause of complaint should be clearly and succinctly set forth; and they must close with a specific prayer, thus:—

"Wherefore your Petitioner prays that," etc., setting forth the redress and relief that is sought.

(7.) The member presenting a Petition should endorse his name thereon, and present it in his place in the House, confining himself, when doing so, to a statement of the parties from whom it comes, the number of signatures attached to it, and the material allegations it contains. He is responsible that it does not contain impertinent or improper matter.

(8.) After a lapse of two days for scrutiny by the Speaker and Clerk of the House, every Petition which proves to be properly receivable is (Rule 86) "brought to the Table by direction of the Speaker, who cannot allow any debate, or any member to speak upon, or in relation to, such Petition; but it may be read by the Clerk at the Table if required; or if it complain of some present personal grievance, requiring an immediate remedy, the matter contained therein may be brought into immediate discussion. In ordinary course, it may, upon motion, be referred to a committee, or Resolutions may be based upon it," etc.

10. BILLS (MONEY).—All Bills relating to public income and expenditure, and all Bills usually called Money Bills, must originate in the Commons and be introduced by the Government.

11. BILLS (PUBLIC).—A Bill is the draft or skeleton of a Statute. Any Bill which the Senate can originate may be introduced and laid on the table by an individual Senator, without the previous permission of the House; but in the Commons no Bill can be brought in unless a motion for leave be previously agreed to. Permission having been granted, a Committee is appointed to prepare the Bill. It is then brought in and read the first time, without amendment or debate, and a day is appointed for the second reading, previous to which it is printed, and a copy furnished to each member. The Bill, after the second reading, is referred to a Committee of the Whole House, at the sittings of which its details are considered, as its principles were at each of its several readings. Members are at liberty to discuss its principles at any of its stages, but no one is considered to have declared decisively in favour of its principles unless by his vote he supports its second reading. In Committee, the Bill is debated clause by clause; the blanks left for amount of penalties, salaries or grants, etc., are filled up, and sometimes the Bill is entirely remodelled. The blanks, as they are called, which are usually filled up in italics, are agreed to without a question being put, unless a member should propose to alter them. The next proceeding is, that the Chairman of the Committee should make a report to the House of the changes that the Bill has undergone, which he does by presenting it to the Speaker in its altered form. The report of the Committee is agreed to without discussion, the Bill is ordered to be printed, and it is then read the third time, when any further amendments can be made. If a new clause be added it is called a rider. The last question but one is that the "Bill do pass;" after this nothing remains except to determine its title, which used to be a general one for all the Acts passed in the session, but in modern times distinct titles are used for each Statute. During the progress of the Bill, the House may divide on the following questions: 1st, on the second reading; 2nd, that it be committed; 3rd, on the consideration of report of Committee, in case of amendment; 4th, or that the Bill be re-committed; 5th, that it be read the third time; 6th, that it do pass; 7th, the title of the Bill. These are quite exclusive of any division in the Committee, or any amendments, or of any clauses added to or expunged from the measure, in or out of the committee. Alterations are not usually proposed in a Bill until after its principle has been disposed of on the second reading. Immediately after the passing of a Bill, it is taken to the Bar of the Senate, desiring their concurrence, where it passes through the same forms as in the Commons. If the Bill be rejected, no further proceedings ensue. When the Senate agree with the Commons in the principle of the measure, but differ on matters of detail, a conference usually follows between members deputed from each House, who generally succeed in adjusting the difference; but if both Houses remain inflexible, the Bill is dropped. The same proceedings are adopted, mutatis mutandis, when the Bill originates in the Upper House. The Bill, having thus passed both Houses, remains with the Senate, except in the case of a Bill of Supply, which is sent back to the Commons, to be by them presented at the Bar of the Senate to the Representative of the Sovereign. The assent of the Crown is the final proceeding which converts a Bill into an Act of Parliament. (Several discussions have arisen respecting procedure with Bills during recent sessions, for which see Speakers' Decisions.)

12. BILLS (PRIVATE).—Private Bills are chiefly introduced to enable individuals or bodies corporate to undertake works of public utility at their own risk and chiefly for their own emolument and benefit; but there are other Private Bills which frequently come before Parliament, such as Bills for adjusting claims to property between individual claimants, and Bills relating to divorce, naturalization, etc., etc. The expenses of legislation in such matters must be paid by the parties seeking the relief; and a deposit of $200 must be made immediately after the second reading of the Bill. After the second reading, if all the rules of the House have been complied with, Private Bills go to the Committee, and it is before this Committee that proper attention must be given by the parties interested. Individuals or companies may appear by Parliamentary Agents.

13. PARLIAMENTARY AGENTS.—In England all the business for private corporations and individuals is transacted by Parliamentary Agents, who conduce to the interests of their clients, as well as to the convenience of Committees and Members, through their familiarity with Parliamentary practice. Their employment is sanctioned in Canada, every agent being (Rule 72) personally responsible to the House and to the Speaker for the observance of the rules, orders and practice of Parliament, and for the payment of all fees and charges; and all agents must have received the express sanction and authority of the Speaker.

14. AVOIDANCE OF A DECISION.—When a motion has been made upon which the House is unwilling to come to a vote, there are certain formal modes of avoiding a decision, amongst which are "passing of the orders of the day," or moving "the previous question." The former means that the House should—casting aside and taking no notice of the matter then before it—proceed to the other business appointed for that day; the latter, that a vote be previously taken as to the expediency of coming to any decision on the question raised. If "the previous question" be negatived as a matter of expediency, the motion to which it referred is only gotten rid of for the time, whereas a direct negative to the motion itself would be a proscription of it for the remainder of the session, as well as a denial of its principle. With respect to a Bill, moving that it "be read this day six months," or "this day three months," is a mode of throwing it out without coming to an express declaration against the principle of the measure.

15. ROYAL ASSENT.—The Act by which the Crown agrees to a Bill is called the Royal Assent; this assent is usually given at the end of a session, unless there is urgent necessity for the Act becoming law without loss of time, in which case the Governor General, or the person administering the Government, comes down to the Upper House, and there, in the presence of both Houses, gives his assent. His Excellency specially manifests his assent to the Supply Bill. Bills to which the Royal Assent is not given are pronounced to be reserved for the signification of Her Majesty's pleasure thereon, and are mentioned in the Official Gazette as having been reserved for Her Majesty's consideration. Unless a reserve is made in the Act itself, so soon as the Royal Assent is given the Act becomes a Law, and can be proceeded on before any competent Court.

16. PRIVILEGES OF PARLIAMENT.—Amongst the privileges which the Commons claim are:—

The power of committing individuals to prison—the power of publishing matters which, if not issuing from such high authority, might become the subject of proceedings in a court of law—the power of directing the Law Officers of the Crown to prosecute persons accused of offences against the laws or affecting the privileges.

of Parliament—and finally, of doing anything not directly contravening an existing Act of Parliament, which may be necessary for the vindication and protection of its own rights, in the exercise of its constitutional functions. Questions of privilege take precedence of all other proceedings, and are always in order. The privileges claimed by individual members are, freedom of speech and person, including freedom from legal arrest and seizure under process from the Courts of Law and Equity. This does not extend to indictable offences, or to actual contempts of the Courts of Justice. Members of Parliament are exempt from all duties the performance of which might interfere with their prompt attendance to their Parliamentary calls. Privilege of Parliament, such as it is, continues for a convenient time after prorogation and dissolution. (During recent sessions, several Questions of Privilege have arisen, which will be found among Speakers' Decisions.)

17. COMMITTALS.—In common with Courts of Law and Equity the Houses of Parliament can punish all contempt of their authority, or disobedience of their mandates. Each House is armed with power to repress any aggression committed upon its rights, or any interference with its privileges; but in the case of the Commons, the operation of this power is limited to the session of Parliament, committals by that House being invalidated by a prorogation. Either House can delegate to a committee the power of sending for papers and records, and of enforcing the attendance of necessary witnesses.

18. CONFERENCE.—This is a species of negotiation between the two Houses of Parliament, conducted by managers appointed on both sides, for the purpose of producing concurrence, in cases where mutual consent is necessary; or for the purpose of reconciling differences which may have arisen. If the conference be upon the subject of a Bill depending between the two Houses, it may be demanded by that House which is in possession of the Bill at the time of asking the conference. It is the sole privilege of the Senate to name the time and place for holding a conference, no matter by which House it may have been demanded. Reasons in writing for the course resolved to be taken are usually furnished to the managers on both sides, in which case it is simply called "a conference." Should this proceeding fail, "a free conference" must be held, which gives an opportunity for the managers individually, and unrestrained by any precise form of agreement, to urge such reasons as, in their judgment, may best tend to influence the House to which they are addressed. A free conference is usually demanded after two conferences have been holden without effect. After one free conference, none other but free conferences can be held touching the same subject.

19. SUPPLY.—All proceedings which relate to the public income or expenditure must originate with the Commons, and must be begun by resolution moved in Committee of Supply, which is always a Committee of the Whole House. In the course of the session, estimates are submitted to a Committee of Supply, and resolutions moved thereon, granting to the Crown the sums requisite for the management of the various departments of the Government, and the support of various public and private institutions. Such as are confirmed by the Committee of Supply are reported to the House, where they are again re-considered and adopted or rejected, as the case may be. Upon these a Bill is passed, and this Supply Bill furnishes authority to the Government for disbursing the various sums appropriated. The Upper House may reject this or any other Money Bill, but they cannot alter or amend the substance of a Supply or Money Bill; such a course would be regarded as an invasion of the privileges of the Lower House. Before any Bill can be introduced authorizing the expenditure of any public money, resolutions must be moved in Committee of Supply, agreed to there, reported and confirmed by the House.

20. WAYS AND MEANS.—As the Committee of Supply relates to the expenditure of the country, so the functions and duties of a Committee of Ways and Means have reference to the funds by which such expenditure is to be met. Loans, duties, taxes, excise and revenue of every description, are submitted to the Committee of Ways and Means. The propositions of Government on this subject are reduced to resolutions, submitted, considered, and decided on, and such as are agreed to are reported to the House. The series of resolutions in com., when reported, is read the first time, pro forma; then the second time, en bloc, (not the first resolution the second time, as formerly the practice in Canada—see Speakers' Decisions) at which stage general discussion of the subject takes place. The resolutions are then read singly, when discussion is confined to the subject matter of each. Those which may be adopted are embodied in a Bill or Bills, and in due course and form become the law of the land. As in the case of Supply Bills, the Upper House may reject these Bills, but cannot amend them, nor can the Upper House insert a pecuniary penalty in any Bill.

21. ADJOURNMENT, PROROGATION AND DISSOLUTION.—Adjournment is a postponement of the sittings or proceedings of the House, from one time to another specified for the re-assemblage. When the sittings of both Houses are interrupted by Royal authority, it is called prorogation. Dissolution puts an end to the representative character of the individuals who, at the time, compose the House of Commons, and Parliament cannot therefore assemble until after a new election, except in cases hereinafter mentioned. The power of adjournment is a right belonging to each House, and there are no restrictions to this power.

The House of Commons can interrupt or postpone any debate, defer the consideration of any measure, or altogether adjourn its sitting, but the practice is always to adjourn to some stated time; and we think there can be no doubt that, by the previous permission of the House, the Speaker can leave the Chair for a certain number of hours; but this does not amount to an adjournment, and could not be noted as such by the Clerk. But it must be remarked that the adjournment of one House does not adjourn the other. The Crown may, pending an adjournment, summon by proclamation either House or both, and may direct either House or both to adjourn to any particular day. But while the power exists, and although in former times it has been frequently exercised in the Imperial Legislature, it has grown into desuetude there as well as in the Provinces enjoying the privileges of their own Local Legislatures.

An individual member may for a time interrupt the progress of business by successive motions for adjournment, which may be repeated indefinitely, with this restriction: no second motion to adjourn can be made until after some intermediate proceeding shall have been had. The motion in committee, that the chairman report progress, is equivalent to a motion to adjourn the debate.

Adjournment does not close the session, nor does prorogation terminate Parliament. The former is an act which either House can perform; the latter is a power vested in the Crown. The duration of recess may be subsequently shortened or extended as the Crown pleases. All unfinished business terminates and dies with a prorogation, but during an adjournment they remain in statu quo, to be revived on the re-assembling of Parliament. A member who moves the adjournment of a debate or who is in possession of the floor at the time of the adjournment, is said to be in possession of the House, with the right to re-open the debate which had been interrupted. This is not the case, however, when Committees of the Whole House adjourn. Prorogation never extends beyond forty days, but it may be repeated from time to time by proclamation, and continue to be renewed until it is intended that Parliament shall meet for the despatch of business. The Crown can summon Parliament to meet at any time by giving fourteen days' notice. Dissolution is the simple death of Parliament, and may be brought about in two ways, either by the pleasure of the Crown or by the lapse of period for which it was called into existence. There was a time when the existence of a Parliament terminated by the demise of the Crown, but a special law removed this provision of the Constitution. But there is no power in the Constitution by which a Parliament in Canada can be extended beyond five years. If Parliament, at the time of the Sovereign's death, be separated by adjournment or prorogation, it must assemble immediately, or within a reasonable period. If no Parliament be then in existence, the members of the last must again meet, and may serve as a Parliament for six months, unless sooner prorogued. By the British North America Act, 30 Sec., it is provided that "there shall be a Session of the Canadian Parliament once, at least, every year, so that twelve months shall not intervene between the last sitting," etc.

PART VI.

Parliamentary Summary, 1880.

12*th February*.—On this day, Parliament having been duly convoked by proclamation, for the despatch of business, His Excellency the Marquis of Lorne, Governor General, accompanied by Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise, came down to the Senate in State, and formally opened the Session. In the Speech from the Throne, His Excellency alluded to the abundance of the previous harvest, and congratulated the members on the recovery which the country was experiencing from the commercial and industrial depression which had so long weighed down the energies of the people. He suggested practical aid to the destitute and suffering people in Ireland, remarked upon the increased immigration taking place into the Canadian North-West, as well as into the older provinces; and referred to the favourable report of the British Royal Commissioners who had been delegated to inquire into the agricultural capacities of the Dominion. The progress of construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway was stated to be satisfactory, and confidence was expressed that the portion between Lake Superior and Red River would be completed within the period specified in the contracts. One hundred miles of the road west of Winnipeg had been placed under contract, and tenders had been asked for the construction of a second hundred miles immediately to the westward of the first. The line to Burrard Inlet on the Pacific coast, having proved the most available, had been finally adopted, and contracts had been awarded for one hundred and twenty-seven miles of the railway in British Columbia, from Emory's Bar, on the Fraser River, to Savona's Ferry, securing when finished communication by rail and steamer between the district of Kamloops and the Capital of the Province. By a rigid system of economy, which at at the same time did not impair the efficiency of its working, the Intercolonial Railway had at last been made nearly self supporting. The ordinary food supply of the Indians of the North-West—the buffalo—having entirely failed, a large expenditure had been incurred in order to save the tribes from starvation; but steps were being taken to settle them on their reserves, to induce them to betake themselves to agricultural pursuits, and in this way to prevent as far as possible the recurrence of similar destitution in the future. The effect of the new tariff in developing the varied industries of the country had on the whole been very satisfactory. In consequence of the increasing foreign trade of Canada, the prospect of negotiations being opened by the Imperial Government with foreign nations on the subject of trade and commercial relations, and the important issues created by the rapid development of the Dominion which were continually arising, requiring the support and the action of the home authorities, the appointment of a permanent representative of Canada in London was recommended. Measures were promised for the better organization of the Civil Service, for the consolidation of the Inland Revenue Laws, for the amendment of the Dominion Lands Acts, and the statutes relating to Public Works, North-West Indians, Mounted Police, and Insolvency. The Act incorporating the Banks of the Dominion would expire the following year, and the time was suggested as favourable for a full consideration of the whole system of banking and currency.

Senate, 13th February.—Hon. Mr. Trudel moved and Hon. Mr. Vidal seconded the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, the debate on which was adjourned.

Commons, 13th February.—Mr. Richey moved and Mr. Houde seconded the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, which was adopted, the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, ninth and thirteenth paragraphs, referring respectively to the questions of Immigration, the Pacific Railway, the Intercolonial Railway, the North-West Indians, the Tariff, and the appointment of a representative in London, being agreed to on division.

Commons, 24*th February*.—An Address to His Excellency the Governor General was adopted, concurring in the proposal to grant a sum of $100,000 for the relief of the distress in Ireland, praying His Excellency to issue the amount out of the Consolidated Fund, and assuring him that the necessary proposition to make good this appropriation, according to law, would be cheerfully agreed to. The concurrence of the Senate in this Address was also requested. Sir John A. Macdonald laid on the table the supplementary papers in relation to the removal of Mr. Letellier from the Lieutenant Governorship of Quebec. The statement of Mr. Mackenzie respecting the offensive remark alleged to have been made to Mr. Huntington, the member for Shefford, in the House, on the 10th May 1879, by one John A. Macdonell, was again read, Mr. Macdonell was called to the bar, apologized to the House for the remark, and was discharged. Parliamentary Summary, 1880-81.

9*th December*, 1880.—Parliament having been convened this day for the despatch of business, and more particularly to consider and ratify a contract entered into by the Government for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, His Excellency the Governor General came down in State to the Chamber of the Senate, and, the members of the House of Commons having been summoned and being in attendance, His Excellency delivered the Speech from the Throne, of which the following is a summary: Having offered his congratulations on the bountiful harvest, the undoubted return of commercial prosperity, and the substantial development of the various interests of the country, he referred to the contract for the construction of the Pacific Railway, which he announced had been entered into with men of high financial standing in Europe, the United States and Canada. The Government had already 264 miles of the road in operation. Large reductions had been made in the expenditures on the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island Railways. He announced the presentation to Canada by the Imperial Government of the training ship Charybdis, the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into and report upon the Civil Service, and the continued scarcity of the buffalo and other animals of the chase, which form the chief source of sustenance of the Indians of the North-West Territories. The revenue had so increased that the receipts of the year were undoubtedly in excess of the expenditure. Among the measures promised was one for the enlargement of the boundaries of the Province of Manitoba, one for the winding up of insolvent banks and incorporated companies, and one respecting the Railway Act and Government Railways. There were now good hopes of Canada being able to place the naturalization of Germans on a more satisfactory footing; a bill on the subject was promised.

Mr. Blake moved that instead the House resolve to postpone the consideration of the question until the 5th January, in view of the magnitude and gravity of the question presented, in order to give time for consideration. S. of the late Mr. John Beaty, who emigrated from the Co. Cavan, Ireland, to Canada, and engaged in agriculture, residing at Ashdale Farm for over fifty years. His mother was Elizabeth Stewart, who early in the present century came with her father, Geo. Stewart, from Bundoran, Ireland, to New York. Mr. Stewart accumulated considerable property there, but during the war of 1812 left the landed portion of it to be confiscated and came to Canada, in consequence of his attachment to British rule. Ed. at the common and grammar schools, Palermo, Trafalgar, and by private tuition. M., 10 Nov. 1858, to Miss Fanny Beaty. Called to the Bar, 1855. Created Q.C., 1872. Is head of the legal firm of Beaty, Hamilton & Cassels. The business of the firm has continued in succession from Dr. William Warren Baldwin, through Hon. Robert Baldwin, Hon. R. B. Sullivan, John Hector, Q.C., Mr. Adam Wilson (now Chief Justice), and Mr. C. S. Patterson, at present one of the Justices of the Court of Appeal for Ontario, for over fifty years. In 1877 Mr. Beaty was elected Alderman for St. James' Ward, of Toronto, by a vote of all parties; he introduced what is known as the "Beaty By-law," changing the whole management of civic affairs. Ran for Mayor, in 1878, against Mr. Angus Morrison, Q.C., who had been Mayor for two years, and was defeated through strong influence, after leaving the matter to the citizens, almost entirely without work, organization or canvass; ran for the same office in 1879, and was elected by a majority of 635 over the largest vote given to five of the strongest men the city afforded in municipal affairs—ex-Mayors Medcalf and Manning, and Aldermen Turner, Britton and P. G. Close. So satisfactorily was his administration of municipal affairs conducted during 1879, that he was re-elected for 1880, by more than 900 majority over ex-Mayor Morrison. Mr. Beaty took an active part, in conjunction with the late John M. Trout, founder and editor of the Monetary Times, and who had also been a law student with him, and with the present managing director, Mr. John K. Macdonald, in establishing the Confederation Life Association, which in a few years has reached great importance under the presidency of Sir Francis Hincks, and latterly of Sir W. P. Howland, as a life insurance institution. His late partner, Mr. Justice Patterson, and he, with the co-operation of Dr. L. W. Smith and others, had much to do in the formation of the Building and Loan Association. He is a director in the Scarboro' Heights Hotel Company, which recently built a hotel a few miles east of Toronto, on the "Balmy Beach" property on the shore of Lake Ontario. He was waited upon by various deputations to run for East Toronto at the last provincial election, consequent upon the elevation of Mr. Justice Cameron to the Bench, and it was generally believed he would have had no opposition, and that even if he had he could have carried the riding by a large majority. The contest for the mayoralty was then actively progressing, and he had pledged himself to citizens interested, as he himself was, in economy and faithful administration of civic business, to go to the polls, and therefore he refused to step aside and become a candidate for what seemed a far better opening for a public man. Elected to Parlt., Aug. 28 1880, on appt. of sitting member Lieut. Governor of Ontario.—Conservative. —Toronto, Ont.

years by the Provinces; thinks that the future of Canada depends very largely on the development ofthe great North-West; advocates the construction, as rapidly as the resources of the country will permit, of the sections of the Pacific Railway necessary for communication between that country and our interior seaboard, in conjunction with an extensive scheme of exploration and colonization; believes that the cultivation of a national spirit is requisite to the success of the Union; that the present form of connection between England and Canada does not possess the element of permanence; that, as the child grows into the man, so the State will come to maturity, and that (notwithstanding the enormous difficulties which surround the scheme) there is a possibility and hope of reorganizing the Empire on a Federal basis, so as to reconcile British connection with British freedom." In 1852 he was appointed Stipendiary Magistrate for the lower River and Gulf of St. Lawrence, and in that capacity he organized the service for the protection of the sea and river fisheries in those ports. He was at the head of that service from 1852 until the Union, when he resigned, and in that position he first had under him the armed steamer Doris, and afterwards the armed schooner La Canadienne, built specially for the service, in which latter vessel he was wrecked in Nov. 1861, during a violent snow storm on the North Coast. In 1859 he established on all the coasts and in the rivers of the Province of Quebec the system of licenses for the salmon fishing. In 1862, Mr. Fortin began a work on the marine animals, fishes, molluscs, crustacea of the Lower River and Gulf St. Lawrence. He described over eighty species of them, and his descriptions, made from nature in nearly all cases, were printed in some of his annual reports to the Government; see report of 1862, and following. Mr. Fortin in several of his reports described the fishing coasts of the Province of Quebec, 1,200 miles in extent, and the different fisheries that are carried on in these parts. He has given valuable statistics, especially since the year 1862, when he appointed a formula which is still followed. In 1858, Mr. Fortin was instructed by the Government of Canada to visit officially the French Colonies of St. Pierre Miquelon and Longlake, with a view to study the conditions under which the French fisheries and fish trade are carried on, both around St. Pierre and on the west, north-west and north coasts of Newfoundland, commonly called the French Coasts. Mr. Fortin was cordially received by the Governor and authorities of St. Pierre, and every facility offered him to fulfil his mission, while the schooner yacht La Canadienne, Quebec built, was much admired by the ship builders and others there. Mr. Fortin reported to the Government of Canada on his mission and gave interesting accounts of the French Fisheries of St. Pierre and neighbouring coasts. In 1868, Mr. Fortin, in order to make himself better acquainted in everything appertaining to navigation, shipping, ship building and the fisheries, visited the Maritime Exhibition at Havre, France, which, as every one knows, was a very successful one. He brought back with him a great deal of information regarding the fisheries and navigation, which formed the subject of much correspondence published by La Minerve. Was a mem. of Ex. Council and Commr. of Crown Lands for the Province of Quebec from Feb. 1873 until 7 Sept. 1874, when he resigned. Did not offer for re-election at last g.e. for P.Q., in consequence of the electors of the Magdalen Islands, where he had obtained a large majority, being deprived of their votes, the dates of the nomination and polling being so fixed that the Returning Officer claimed navigation was not open at the Islands, and did not try to have the proclamation posted there. Elected for present seat at last g.e. by a majority of 797. This is his eighth election in twelve years. A Conservative. "In favour of a system of nautical education with a view to perfecting the scientific instruction of our marines, and thereby making them equal to the best in the world; also empowering our Marine Boards to examine candidates for extra-masters' certificates, and completing the improvements of the St. Lawrence water-course, comprehending the lakes, canals, river and Gulf of St. Lawrence, so as to make it the chief commercial artery of this continent; and firmly believes that the necessary improvements in the postal and telegraphic communications in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the sea-coasts of the Maritime Provinces are essential to completely attain that object." the Assessment Act of U.C. (1863); that consolidating and amending the Acts relating to the Assessment of Property, U.C. (1866); and the highly useful measure for providing means of egress from Public Buildings (1866). As Chairman of Committee on Municipal and Assessment Laws (1866), wrote and framed the greater part of the General Act on Municipal corporations, etc. All the measures of his Government, including the enactment of a stringent election law, with the trial of election petitions by judges, and vote by ballot; the abolition of the real estate qualification of members; the inspection of produce and weights and measures; the better administration of penitentiaries; the enactment of the Marine Telegraph Law, which virtually abolished the monopoly of the Cable Company; the establishment of a Dominion Military College, and the improvement of the militia system; the enlargement of the canals; the permanent organization of the Civil Service; the establishment of a Supreme Court for the Dominion; the reduction of postage to and from the U.S.; the free delivery of postal matter in cities and towns; the opening of direct mail communication with the West Indies; the construction of a trans-continental telegraph line; the better administration of Government Railways; an improved copyright law; the adoption of a final route for the Pacific Railway; the opening of negotiations, conducted on our behalf by our own delegate in person, between Can. and the U.S., for the establishment of an equitable Reciprocity Treaty between the two countries; a new insolvent law; and the establishment of a Territorial Government for the great North-West, have all been more or less moulded and directed by him. A Liberal; and "has always held those political principles—which by some in England may be considered peculiar—of the universal brotherhood of man, no matter in what rank of life he may have taken his origin. Has believed, and now believes, in the extinction of all class legislation, and of all legislation that tends to promote any body of men, or class of men, for the mere fact of their belonging to a body or class, to a higher position politically than any other class in the country. In our great colonies, while no fault is found with the political organization of the Mother Country, or of any other country, we take our stand simply and completely on the ground that every man is equal in the eye of the law, and has the same opportunity, by exercising the talents with which God has blessed him, of rising in the world, in confidence of his fellow citizens—one man quite as much as another. Believes thoroughly in party government, and that it is utterly impossible to conduct the government of a new country without it. While an earnest advocate and upholder of the present connection with the Mother Country, he will always endeavour to maintain Canadian rights and to bring Canada into prominence in the eyes of the world."—Toronto, Ont.; Sarnia, Ont.; Rideau Club.

Elected a mem. of the Council of Public Instruction for Ont. (representing the School Inspectors) Aug. 1875. An unsuccessful candidate for a seat in the Council of Public Instruction, Ont. 1874. First returned to Parlt. for present seat at g.e. 1867; re-elected at g.e. 1872; at g.e. 1874, and again at last g.e. Executives, and the complete separation of Provl. and Federal jurisprudence. Was opposed to admission of British Columbia into the Union, as premature, and the terms of Union as preposterous. He was of opinion that, with more than two thousand miles of unsettled territory between the Upper Ottawa and British Columbia, we were not in a position to undertake the responsibilities of governing the country upon the Pacific coast. He held that railway construction, if needed in British Columbia, was a work to be undertaken by Imperial rather than by Canadian authority. He was opposed to pledging Canada to the construction of a continuous line of railway to the Pacific, as wholly beyond the resources of this country. Favours the government of Can. by the Can. Parlt., and not by despatches from the Colonial Office. Holds that power to legislate upon the subjects of navigation and shipping carries with it power to establish Courts to adjudicate upon matters arising under such legislation, in accordance with the well settled rules of the maritime laws. Favours a national policy, based not upon principles of commercial exclusion but upon principles of commercial extension. Thinks Canada has outgrown the condition of an ordinary colony. She has commercial relations with foreign States, in which she alone is interested, and which she alone ought to regulate and control on her own behalf. Is opposed to the people's representatives abdicating their functions, either by failing to maintain effective control over the expenditure of the national resources or by surrendering to the Crown and Privy Council an important part of their legislative functions. Does not regard an enormous public debt as a national blessing; and believes that the prosperity of the country is to be promoted by habits of economy among the people, by encouraging a feeling of self reliance and personal independence, and by fostering a spirit of patriotism—not flunkeyism—by which the interest, the prosperity and the honour of Canada are made the paramount duty of their representatives, and not upon gigantic and costly works built in wild and uninhabitable regions. Considers the present state as one of transition, and regards the Confederation of the Empire, for certain specified purposes, as the most satisfactory solution of our political future.—Palmyra, Ont.

WHITE, JOHN. (East Hastings.)

B. in Town of Donegal, Irel., 1833. Ed. there. M., 1856, Miss Esther Johnson, of Roslin. Reeve of Tyendinaga three years. Elected Grand Master Grand Orange Ass. Ontario East, and a Deputy Grand Master of Grand Black Chapter of Orangemen of B.A, 1874. First returned to Parlt., March 1871; re-elected at g.e. 1872, and at g.e. 1874. WHITE, THOMAS. (Cardwell.)

Father emigrated to this country from Co. Westmeath, Irel., in 1826, and carried on business for many years in Montreal as leather merchant. B. in Montreal, 1830. Ed. at High School, Montreal. M. in 1853. Served in Peterboro' and Hamilton as member of Grammar School Boards; was for some time Reeve of Town of Peterboro'. Representative for a number of years of the Montreal Board of Trade in the Dominion Board; member for three years of Executive Council of Dominion Board, and representative for five years of that body at the National Board of Trade of the United States. First returned to Parlt. at g.e. 1878. Was a candidate for S. Wentworth in 1867 for the Leg. Assembly, Ont.; for the Commons in Prescott Co., Ont., 1874, and for Montreal West in 1875, and again in 1876. The aggregate majorities against him in the first three elections was only sixteen. A Conservative. Believes that Canada occupies an exceptional position, rendering it impossible to apply the principle of Free Trade, as stated by political economists, without serious injury. Thinks the Tariff should be so framed as to promote foreign trade by Halifax in winter, and the St. Lawrence in summer, as against trade by American seaports; and as to foster the development of the agricultural, mining, and manufacturing interests of the country. In favour of a British Zollverein which would strengthen the bond of union between the Mother Country and the Colonies, by fostering and protecting their trade relations.—5 Beaver Hall Square, Montreal.

Egert & Averells; became their successor in 1862, having purchased their entire interest in the Prescott Distillery, which he has since rebuilt and enlarged, until it now ranks third in capacity in the Dominion. Is extensively engaged in cattle feeding, and from his establishment the first important shipment of cattle was made to Eng. Is also proprietor of the celebrated "Rysdyk Stock Farm," situated half a mile west of Prescott, on the banks of the St. Lawrence, containing nearly 600 acres. The most fashionable and highly prized Hambletonian stock is the feature of this establishment, from which Mr. Wiser has turned out some of the fastest and most valuable horses ever raised in Can. Mr. Wiser has spared no expense to improve the quality and value of the stock on his farm, which has thus far not proved the pecuniary success the undertaking merited, but the advantage to the country at large cannot be overestimated. Is largely interested in agricultural and manufacturing industries. First returned to Parlt. at last g.e. A Liberal, and will vote for all measures that will promote the prosperity of the country.—Prescott, Ont.

Mr. Morgan demanded a recount, which was made before Judge Lyon, and the votes polled in three subdivisions rejected as being marked so as to identify voters. This gave Mr. Morgan a majority of 27, and he was declared elected. Subsequently Mr. Baker appealed to the courts and Chief Justice and V.-C. Blake decided that the Dep. Retg. Officers had placed the marks (i.e., figures) on the ballots by mistake, and, under the Act, the votes were not voided. Therefore they declared Mr. Baker elected.

The terms of time are as follows :—

The School will be opened daily throughout the year (except from the 1st July till the end of August) from nine in the forenoon till four in the afternoon.

On Saturdays it will close at noon.

The course of studies followed at this school are :—

the latitude by meridian altitude of the sun, of a star, by an ex-meridian altitude of the sun ; finding the longitude by chronometer ; the variation and deviation of the compass by an amplitude and by an azymuth, to find the times of high water ; the correction of soundings ; to make observation for the formation of the table of deviations, its application, also the laying off and use of Napier's diagram ; the use of the chart of instruments ; the rule of the road and all other subjects comprised in the viva voce examination before the Dominion Board of Examiners.

SECOND COURSE.

An extended study of practical navigation and nautical astronomy. To find the latitude by a meridian altitude of the moon, of circum-polar stars, by an ex-meridian altitude of the pole star, by double altitudes of a celestial body (Summer's and Ivory's methods) ; to find the longitude by double altitudes, by lunar observations ; to rate a chronometer by equal altitudes ; the use of the artificial horizon, the laws of storms, etc., etc.

THIRD COURSE.

Theory.

Mathematical investigation of the different rules and formulæ used in nautical science.

The Matriculation fee is $15 for those studying to pass for a mate's certificate before the Dominion Board of Examiners, and $20 for those studying to pass as masters; and students, after having matriculated, have the right to attend the school free for any length of time, until they have obtained their certificates from the Dominion Board of Examiners.

Should extra examinations be established before the Dominion Board of Examiners, the preparation for those extra examinations of such candidates as will have made their studies at this school will be free of any charge.

The tutor of the school makes a monthly report to the Provincial Secretary, stating the number and proficiency of students, and the number of candidates from the school who have successfully passed the Dominion Board of Examiners for certificates of masters and mates.

Persons desirous ot entering the school may apply to the Honourable the Provincial Secretary, or to Wm. C. Seaton, Esquire at Quebec.

By order.

GENERAL INFORMATION

RESPECTING THE MINES AND MINING LAW OF THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

The chief provisions of the Quebec General Mining Act of 1880 are:—

1. The declaration of ownership by the Crown and reserve of all mines not specially granted. Sec. 3.

2. For the sale of mining rights on patented and seigniorial lands, and on unpatented lands acquired for agricultural purposes. Secs. 4 to 12.

3. For imposition of Royalty under Order in Council if deemed advisable. Secs. 13 & 52.

4. For granting licenses to mine for gold or silver on public lands and on conceded portions of Seigniory Rigaud, Vaudreuil, and other private lands. Secs. 14, 50, et seq.

5. For the sale of lands as mining locations. Sec. 23, et seq.

6. For imposition of penalties for contravention of Act. Sec. 101, et seq.

Under this Act parties holding Letters Patent for lands granted for agricultural purposes may acquire the right to work any mines of gold or silver thereon, without license, by paying the Commissioner of Crown Lands a sum sufficient to make up, with the amount paid before issue of patent, the price of two dollars per acre. In the case of "free grants" the whole price of two dollars per acre must be paid. Censitaires in the seigniories in which the Crown holds mining rights may acquire these rights by paying one dollar and a half per acre for the whole of their land, or at least one hundred acres; and the seignior or proprietor of the unconceded portion of a seigniory may do the same on paying two dollars per acre; the extent over which such rights can be acquired being, however, limited to four hundred acres, or, in special cases, eight hundred acres.

If a mine of any kind be discovered and worked on land sold for settlement but not patented, the settlement duties not being performed, the sale may be cancelled, unless the land be paid for in full as a mining location: Sec. 12.

Mining locations, which may be of any extent up to four hundred acres, or in special cases eight hundred acres, may be acquired by addressing a letter to the Commissioner of Crown Lands, specifying the lot or lots required, and transmitting at the same time—

1. The full price of the location at the rate of three dollars per acre, if it is to be mined for phosphate of lime (this price fixed by O.C. of 23 March, 1881.); two dollars per acre, if to be mined for asbestos, or gold or silver (price fixed by O.C. of 7 Oct. 1880.); one dollar per acre, if it be mined for inferior metals or other minerals, or deposits of any substance of appreciable value.
2. A specimen of the mineral for which the land is to be worked, with an affidavit identifying it as having been taken from the land applied for.

Mines of gold or silver on public or private lands may be worked by parties taking out licenses for themselves and their employees, costing two dollars for each person for three months, if the mining is to be done on private lands, and four dollars if on public lands.

The size and position of claims on public lands worked under such licenses are regulated by the Act or determined by the mining inspector according to circumstances.

The localities in the Province of Quebec in which minerals are chiefly found are as follows:—

GOLD.—Eastern townships, especially the counties of Beauce and Compton.

PHOSPHATE OF LIME.—Counties of Ottawa and Argenteuil.

ASBESTOS.—Counties of Megantic and Wolfe.

IRON.—Counties of Ottawa, Montcalm, St. Maurice, Champlain, Charlevoix and Saguenay.

COPPER.—Counties of Bagot, Megantic and Sherbrooke.

GALENA.—Counties of Ottawa (Lake Temiscamingue), Gaspé and Rimouski.

PLUMBAGO.—County of Ottawa.

MICA.—Counties of Berthier, Ottawa and Megantic.

Le décompte s'est fait hier, à Joliette, devant Son Honneur le juge Taschereau.

M. F. J. Bisaillon représentait M. Guilbault et M. Champagne, de Joliette, M. Neveu.
